Sober Housing for Recovering Addicts

For those who have successfully completed a substance abuse program

When rehab programs begin to wind to a close, the professionals at the facility should begin to prepare their patients for transition back into the outside world. If this is not done, you should ask for help in finding aftercare transition housing. After-care refers to housing and services where an individual in post-rehab recovery can get the help they need to stay on track and continue to apply everything they learned during counseling. 12-step programs such as Alcoholics Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous are two of the most common forms of after-care services.
